Workshop Descriptions Fall Conference 2019

Keynote

Toward More Inclusive Practices in Conflict Resolution

As we increasingly engage with individuals who are different from us, it is critical to think about how we live, work, and play peacefully together. Mediators can address challenges that may arise by considering intentional inclusion practices that encourage new understandings of ourselves and those around us. During this presentation, participants will reflect on their own identities, understand the value of inclusive concepts, and consider individual and community actions to foster inclusion for the benefit of conflict resolution professionals and clientele.

Managing Forgiveness Issues in Mediation While Respecting Self Determination

This program will draw on audience interaction which will be welcomed and encouraged, highlighting the experience of the presenter and members of the audience. The presentation will include a selected and annotated bibliography of materials bearing on the handling of forgiveness issues by mediators and facilitators dealing with interpersonal conflict.

Mediating Safely When Domestic Violence Is an Issue

This workshop will provide the opportunity for participants to engage in an overview of domestic violence (DV). By working through scenarios participants should be able to identify subtle and overt signs and warnings of DV; understand the advantages and disadvantages of caucus; describe methods of terminating the mediation safely, including the development of a personalized safety plan.

B-1

Running a Successful Mediation Practice

Once you have become a good family mediator, making it easy for the people who need your services to find you is in itself a public service. Learn how choosing a business name, a logo, an email address, and a postal address are tied to branding. Find out how to get a good headshot, what to put on your business cards, how to get your website off to a good start, where to add your company to directory listings, and how to ask for online reviews. Learn about paying for advertising, building a referral network, and using social media for marketing.

A Review of ACE Study: Learning How Early Trauma Impacts Later Behavior

This workshop will provide a review of the ACE ( Adverse Childhood Experiences) Study and provide participants with information regarding how early trauma impacts later behavior. A discussion regarding potential ways to incorporate ACE findings into mediation will follow.

Workshop Descriptions Fall Conference 2019

C-1

Mediate to Learn

This is a highly interactive session based on role-plays and group work. In this session, groups will conduct role-plays involving difficulties that often trip mediators up like unresponsive parties, bickering parties, defiant parties, parties who want to rush, and those who are really stuck on "principle." Half the attendees will co-mediate a situation and do their best to get through the difficulties presented (no termination allowed), while the other half will play the parties. The group will prepare for and reflect upon the mediation using DRS's self-reflection form (ADR-1011), the "Mediator Self-Reflection Treasury," and party feedback. The goal of this session is to gain mediator insights and growth from aware, self-reflective mediating.

C-2

The Alternatives in Alternative Dispute Resolution

Since its inception in the 1950's ADR or Alternative Dispute Resolution methods have grown and now far exceed litigation as a means of resolving a conflict. Statistics generally claim that less than 5% of cases that are filed go to trial, and less than 2% of civil cases reach a verdict.

Parties, mediators and lawyers need to understand all of the options available to disputants so that they discuss options with clients and assist them in evaluating the best process for their situation.

D-1

Peer Mediator Consultation

In this workshop participants will explore "critical moments" in their mediation cases and reflect on how these critical moment interventions affected the mediation outcome. The workshop is based on material from Michael Lang's book, The Making of a Mediator.

D-2

Power Tools for the Mediation Process or Powerful Mediation

The Power Tools for the Mediation Process offers Mediators with an alternative approach to mediation that utilizes the facilitative and transformative style of mediation. The program focuses on providing contracted parties with the insight and practice in skills sets necessary to resolve issues while in the mediation session and post-mediation arrangement. The Power Tools for Mediation process utilizes a systemic model that fosters party ownership in operations towards communication and issue resolution. The program uses the Systemic Training in Operating Principles Model and Power Tools Behavioral practices.

Bookzone

Influence, the Psychology of Persuasion by Robert B. Cialdini, Ph.D. (Arizona State University)

Dr. Cialdini is considered to be the seminal expert in the field of influence and persuasion. His book was first published in 1984 and was most recently revised in 2006. It is based on groundbreaking research about the ethical application of influence in business environments. Dr. Cialdini identifies six universal types of influence that cause people in everyday life to change their minds. This book has direct relevance to mediation and conflict resolution, where practitioners are trying to understand the causes and remedies for unbending, seemingly irrational, positions. (Available on Amazon for $12.23)

E-1

Rainbow Connections: LGBTQ Populations—Increasing Awareness and Understanding for More Inclusive Mediation Practices

This workshop seeks to increase understanding of basic concepts, including definitions, vocabulary and pronoun use. It will increase awareness of potential for unintended bias in mediation. The workshop will enhance best practices for mediation with emphasis on language / vocabulary. There will be discussions led by facilitator Beth Roper.

Having Fun in the Kitchen with Mediation

This workshop is a fun and interactive session that will stretch your imagination when it comes to mediation as we relate aspects of mediation to baking. We will discuss the ingredients of an effective mediator and the directions to the 4 stages of the mediation process. The audience will discover new ways to describe and relate mediation to parties and experience first hand the importance of the right balance in mediation by baking examples.

Ethics

It All Comes Back to Quality

This hands-on course takes an in-depth look at the Virginia mediator ethical standards and how they encourage and support mediator quality. Using scenarios based on mediator complaints from the first decade of mediator certification, small groups will give the class a mini-ethics lesson based on the issues arising from their assigned complaint.
